Lawyers in the Pollard-Breckinridge Case,

Have Quite a Lively Fight Between Themselves.

FIGHTERS PARTED.

Mr. Shelby Assails Johnson
Counsel for Plaintiff.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—A pugilistic encounter occurred yesterday between the lawyers employed in the Breckinridge-Pollard case, which indicates the intense feeling which exists between the counsel on the opposing sides. The trouble took place just outside the court room. When this court adjourned for the day Mr. Shelby, of counsel for the defense, rebuked Mr. Johnson, of counsel for the plaintiff, for his harsh criticism of Mr. Shelby during the course of the afternoon's proceedings. Hard words followed and before the outcome could be stopped, Mr. Shelby struck Mr. Johnson a blow. Mr. Casile came to the assistance of Mr. Johnson and in a moment the lawyers on each side were involved in what would undoubtedly have been an ugly fracas had not the cool-headed men in the crowd of members of the bar which surrounded the angry lawyers interfered and separated the combatants. The affair created somewhat of a sensation and added to the remarkable incidents of the day.

At the conclusion of the row Judge Bradley, who had left the courtroom, strode upon the scene, demanding to know the cause of the trouble.

Mr. Johnson, Mr. Casile and Mr. Wilson laid the case before him, stating the Kentucky lawyer had made an unprovoked assault upon Mr. Johnson. Colonel Breckinridge and his son had started from the court house but seeing the judge turned back, the congressman hurrying him and saying with evident excitement,

"I had nothing to do with this judge. I was trying to separate them. That was all."

From the statements of eye witnesses, it seemed that this was correct, for although there was a moment of very general scuffling, everybody but Mr. Shelby seemed to have started in with the intention of stopping the trouble.

Judge Bradley was very indignant. "We cannot have this here," he said sternly. "You must understand we cannot have such outbreaks. I will ascertain in the morning who is responsible for this and see they are properly punished." Thereupon the two parties of attorneys retired to their respective headquarters to discuss the affair.

When seen in his office, Mr. Johnson said: "We are not going to litigate this case in Kentucky style. I will call the attention of the judge to the matter in the morning, and leave it in his hands. My reference to the conduct of the defendant's counsel in court were perfectly justified by the circumstances." When evoked them. They were neither commented upon by the judge, nor objected to by the attorneys when they were spoken.

This pugilistic encounter was not the only sensational incident of the day, for Miss Pollard was carried sobbing from the court room and fell in a faint outside the door when testifying concerning the birth and death of her child in 1888. The two faithful friends of her own sex attended her and she was driven in a cab to the House of Ketage, where she makes her home.

A Double Tragedy in St. Louis:

St. Louis, Mo., March 13.—Jacob Stutts, a carpenter, shot and killed another carpenter, Charles Wuenisch, and then turned the weapon upon himself, inflicting a wound which will prove fatal. Wuenisch has been building himself a house. Stutts, was employed by him, but was laid off for some neglect of duty. He took his discharge and left the building, muttering threats. He went to a saloon, however, and a double-barreled shotgun was turned to the place on which he had been employed, bent on wreaking summary vengeance on Wuenisch.

Treatment With Cyanine.

MURKIN, Ind., Tues., March 13.—As it is currently reported in the press of the country that the Choctaws have signified their willingness to treat with the Dawes commission, inquiry was made of the commission as to the truth of the matter, and they stated that it is not a fact that the Choctaws have made no agreement to treat, though the sentiment among leading individual Choctaws is hopeful and satisfactory to the commission.
